Make Your Individuality Corn. Henry Van Dyke once said "Individuality is the salt of common life. You may have to live in a crowd, but you do not have to live like it, nor subsist on its food." Even through Van Dyke wrote this many years ago, it also applies to us today. We must learn to be ourselves, apply our talents, and use our ideas. Our society is growing more and more complex each day and people are searching for relief from life's problems. Our major problems today consist of alcoholism and drug addiction. When one person or crowd begins drinking or taking unconsciously, it influences others. By this an example is set which causes others to want to experiment. In a recent crusade Billy Graham talked of passing the buck. By this he explained that wrongdoing he can always find someone else to blame. When we let others influence our lives for us, we are weak and therefore guilty of not using our minds. A college student at a northern college was visiting with some friends when they inspired him to try marijuana. It gave him a pleasing effect and he became a regular user of this drug. When this didn't satisfy him, he turned to harder drugs and was found nearly dead in a dark alley. He was taken to a hospital where he received help. His education, his future, and his hopes were destroyed for he thought it was more important to follow the crowd than use one's own judgment Following the crowd ap plies not only to drugs, but to schoolwork also.
